Reflections.

With the end of another year in sight, Yuletide is traditionally a time for reflection.
1997 saw the election of a socialist government, the first for many years. True to expectations, Marxist-Labour, or "New" Labour as it now prefers to be called, began its reign with the immediate betrayal of the Loyalist people of Ulster. The IRA's former Belfast Brigade Commander, Gerry Adams, was invited to meet Britain's new Prime Minister and treated as an elder statesman instead of the terrorist that he is. In one fell swop Labour betrayed not only the people of Ulster but thousands of decent men, women and children who have been victims of Marxist-Republican terrorism.

1997 also saw the loss of some dedicated patriots.

It was with great personal sadness that I learned of the death of Szymon Serafinowicz. Readers will recall that 86 year-old Szymon became the first victim of Britain's War Crimes Legislation, dubbed by some as "the Jewish Law Of Revenge".
I visited Szymon late last year in an attempt to interview him for League Sentinel. Under the watchful eye of his youngest son Kazimierz, I showed Szymon copies of our publication and attempted to convince him that we were not out to denigrate him but to establish the truth.
Szymon seemed confused for most of the time I was with him but on a few occassions he seemed to recover his concentration. It was then he told me, "I have done nothing to be ashamed of. I fought for my people against the enemy. I have done nothing that I would not do again". I left the old man saddened that in a few weeks time he would have to face "justice" in a British court.
It is now a fact of history that Szymon was found unfit to stand trial and his case dismissed.
Sadly, just a few months later, Kazimierz the son, with whom he lived, passed away leaving Szymon on his own.
The official verdict of his death was that "he died of old age" after a short illness.
I sincerely believe that Szymon was hounded to his death by our Zionist controlled media.
I shall not forget Szymon. Nor will I forget or forgive, those ultimately responsible for his death..

Absent Friends.

As you gather around the Yuletide hearth, surrounded by family and friends, please give a thought to "absent friends", those Nationalists that have given their freedom for the struggle.
In Britain, young men are spending their Yuletide away from family and friends incarcerated by a malevolent government. Their crime? Love of our race and a determination not to see it destroyed.
In Ulster, the frontline against Marxist Republicanism, Ulster Loyalists, continue to sacrifice their freedom to maintain their traditional way of life as part of our great nation.
In Germany, and other parts of Europe, patriots languish in prison cells for daring to question the approved version of the Holocaust.
Where the quest for truth was once a virtue, it is now a heinous crime.
In the U.S., patriots are serving long prison sentences for defying their Zionist dominated government by standing up for race and nation.

Please remember our POW's. Now and always! Send a card or a short letter. Let them know they have not been forgotten.
Remember ...

COMRADESHIP. LOYALTY. HONOUR.

NF Protest At Gypsy Invasion

Whilst the politicians discussed what do do about the invasion of the south coast town of Dover by hundreds of East European gypsies looking for the lucrative benefits available in Britain to the workshy and unemployable, the NATIONAL FRONT took to the streets of Dover to show local residents that at least one political party in Britain cares about the indigenous population.

Dover, the main port of arrival from the continent, has been overwhelmed by the sudden influx of gypsies demanding homes, jobs, money and political asylum. The local authority appealed to the government for assistance and while the politicians waffled, local social services were at their wits end trying to find accommodation for the economic invaders.

Local people could only look on as money destined for local projects was spent on feeding and housing the uninvited. In Westminster, Tony Blair and his "New" Labour colleagues, wary of upsetting their left-wing, who firmly believe in an open door policy of immigration into Britain, talked and talked, but did nothing.

The National Front organised a regional demonstration with approximately 80 activists taking part in a march through the town. The local police, who it was at first feared would ban the demonstration, were only too happy to allow the event, surprised perhaps that at last someone was willing to protest about the situation.

Predictably, the undemocratic forces of anti-fascism decided the march must be stopped at any cost and bussed in members from as far away as London to confront the NF.

Approximately 150 demonstrators answered the call and local residents of Dover found it difficult to distinguish between anti-fascist demonstrators and immigrant gypsies. To their credit, Dover police did their utmost to prevent the extreme-left thugs from interfering with the NF's democratic rights and police officers in riot gear ably assisted by dogs firmly dissuaded the reds from attacking the march.

To cheers and applause from local residents, the NF demonstrated their opposition to both the gypsy invasions and government ineptitude. Having completed their task, they left the port peacefully.

The anti-fascist rabble continued to abuse the police long after the NF had left the area and three anti-fascists were subsequently arrested.

Footnote: While the government continues to award handouts in the form of taxpayer's money to illegal immigrants, British pensioners suffer.

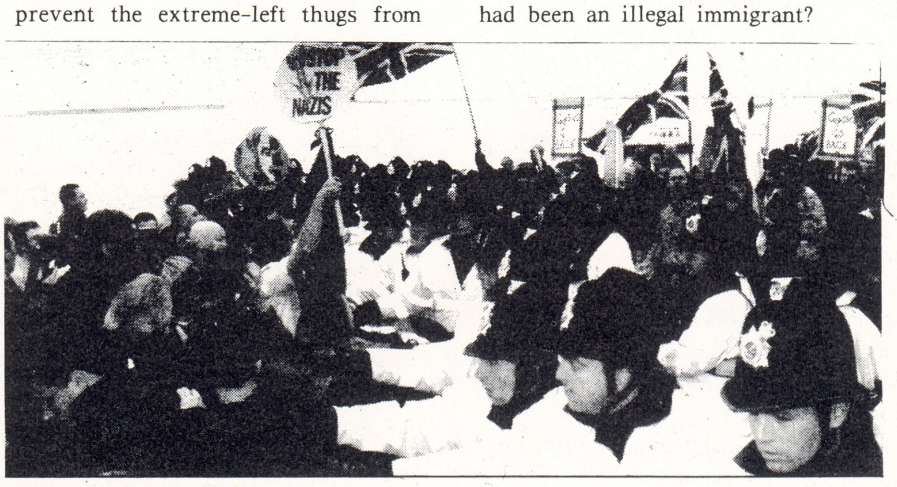
In Ulster, war veteran Fred McLarnon, decorated three times for service to King and Country, lived the last years of his life in extreme poverty. He begged the local health authority to re-house him in a home for ex-servicemen so as he could live out his final years in some comfort and dignity.

Despite his application being supported by his GP, Fred was told due to a lack of funding the home could not take any more residents.

Finally, this proud old soldier went to his local railway station and as a train approached, he lay down on the line.

No money was found on Fred's body and he had just 63p in his bank account.

How much better could Fred have fared if only he had been an illegal immigrant?



Dover police battle with a small, but violent group of left-wing extremists trying to stop the National Front from exercising their democratic rights. Local residents thanked NF marchers for their support.

National Alliance Victory

The National Alliance and its founder, Dr William Pierce, have won their case in which Dr Pierce was being sued by the family of a black man shot to death by a deranged, white, former soldier. The family had alleged that the soldier had been encouraged to commit a racial murder after reading one of Dr Pierce's fictional books, THE TURNER DIARIES.

The family of the black murder victim were claiming damages of TEN MILLION DOLLARS against Dr Pierce in a case that was so weak that Dr Pierce's lawyers were able to file a motion requesting the court to issue a formal reprimand to the plaintiff's legal team for bringing a "frivolous suit" and order them to pay the costs incurred by the defence in defending the case.

Before the request could be answered, one of the plaintiff's attorneys immediately withdrew from the case, blaming his colleagues for initiating the complaint.

The remaining lawyers panicked when they realised that they could themselves be liable for costs running into many thousands of dollars and asked the judge to dismiss their case "with prejudice" which means that the case cannot be brought at any time in the future.

With this case now out of the way, it leaves Dr Pierce free to concentrate on his next legal battle, this time with Morris Dees, of the extreme-left Southern Poverty Law Centre, in a case to be heard in the state of North Carolina.

France

Former film star Brigitte Bardot, now an animal rights activist, has been fined £1000 for "inciting racial hatred".

Mme Bardot has consistently condemned the French authorities for allowing Muslims to ritually slaughter sheep in the streets of France as part of their religious festivities.
In addition to the incitement charges, Mme Bardot was sued by a Muslim group for "defamation". In this case she was also found guilty but a sympathetic judge ordered her to pay damages of just ... one franc (12p).

Rhodesia

In Rhodesia, now Zimbabwe, the communist president, Robert Mugabe, has introduced legislation to force White farmers to hand over large tracts of their land to Blacks.

The legislation, which has been described as "judicial theft", has no plans to compensate farmers for their losses.
Although Whites are a small minority, they still have a great deal of financial power and are threatening to destabilise the country if the legislation is passed.

Whilst President Mugabe ponders this problem he also has another, less serious but more embarrassing one to face.
His long time colleague, and Presidential predecessor, the enchantingly named, Canaan Banana, faces criminal charges including ELEVEN counts of sodomy, SIX counts of attempted sodomy and FOUR charges of indecent assault! All the charges involve members of the presidential staff, including seven assistants, the presidential cook, a gardener and a member of the presidential bodyguard. Banana is accused of using his position as president to force the men into submitting to sex.
Ex-President Banana aged 62 is now a Clergyman and an International peace negotiator!

PROGRESS PARTY DOUBLES ITS VOTE

The Norwegian establishment received a shock when, in the country's recent General Elections, the nationalist Progress Party gained 16% of the vote, doubling its previous best. The increased vote gave the Norwegian nationalists 25 seats in the country's parliament and made them Norway's second biggest political party!

Party leader, Carl Hagen, presented a radical policy of promising to distribute Norway's extensive North Sea oil income to funding a new welfare programme aimed at benefitting the poor, sick and elderly. It was promised that these improvements would only be available to indigenous Norwegians and third-world immigrants would be excluded from the welfare programme.

As with all Nationalist parties, the Progress Party had suffered harassment and violence from minority anti-fascist groups throughout the electoral campaign and now plan to close various Anti-Racist Centres that have been established in many Norwegian towns.

The campaign of harassment of Ernst Zundel continues. The latest move by the Canadian establishment is to lodge charges against the web-site used by Zundel under Canadian Human Rights legislation.

A Federal court will have to decide if Zundel's web-site violated Canadian law on the distribution of "discriminatory material".

It is expected that Mr Zundel will be represented by lawyer, Doug Christie.

Understanding The

In his book, Mosley - Right or Wrong, Sir Oswald Mosley made his views on race perfectly clear when he stated, "The first thing to note is that races are different - I say different from one another, mark you, not superior or inferior to one another". Many misguided racial patriots, however, have been led up a different path and have adopted the concept of Nordic superiority and the absurd idea that only the Nordic is creative. The Scandinavians of the 9th century are remembered as the feared Vikings of the sea but today are the pacifist exponents of democracy and liberalism. Nordicism is a very narrow ideal based more on sentimentalism for the past rather than any real scientific evidence.

The idea that a Herrenvolk must be characterised by blondness of hair, blue eyes and tallness of stature is a misleading interpretation of National Socialist doctrine. This exaggerated Nordicism was promoted quite independently of the NSDAP by the eccentric Hans Guenther. Other Nordic theorists were even more barmy and an embarrassment to the National Socialist movement. The nonsense that the Nordic was a special act of creation and that they even created Chinese culture was tame stuff compared with some of the wilder notions in this superiority theory. Would you believe that a Karl Weinlaender proclaimed that a transfusion of Nordic blood promoted rapid health, whereas a transfusion of Jewish blood would kill a patient? The idea that all creativity stems from the Nordic would imply that anyone creative must be Nordic ... tall, blond and blue-eyed. One could fill page after page in this publication with the names of the greatest in European history and very few could be categorised as Nordic. It is very easy to laugh at this claptrap and, indeed, it has been jumped on by the Hollywood film mafia as representing the official race theory of National Socialist Germany and thus caricature the German as someone mad or inhuman.

It is suffice to state that HItler had no truck with these ridiculous theories and talked only of "Aryans" without being at all specific regarding physical type. We can assume from that, that he was referring to all Europeans, regardless of colour of hair and eyes or stature. He made this clear at Nuremburg in 1933 when he said, "We do not conclude from a man's physical type his ability, but rather from his ACHIEVEMENTS his race". This is far from the rubbish concerning cephalic indices and blondness.

An intelligent race theory requires a far wider perspective and an appreciation of other races, peoples and civilisations. We share this planet with many diversely different groups of people with whom we need to communicate and understand. To do otherwise is a great folly, for we would only isolate ourselves and reduce the chances for greater opportunities in the wider world.

No race is inferior or superior to another. We must establish this fact if we are ever to be taken seriously with a wider audience. That does not diminish the love and the worth we place on our own race ... the European race.

Adolf Hitler. The German leader spoke of ARYANS rather than NORDICS.

Theory Of Race

We must acknowledge the great achievements of other peoples down the ages and not insult them with nonsense about superiority. The contributions of the early Egyptians or the civilisations of Sumaria, of Babylonia, of Phoenicia, or the Chinese have been of immeasurable significance. As Toynbee points out in his Study of History, the Nordics have contributed only to four or five of Mankind's twenty-one great civilisations ... in contrast, the people of the Mediterranean have contributed to ten. The Arab empire extended from Spain right across to China when Europe lived in the Dark Ages.

Alexander the Great. Not a "Nordic" but a European whose "achievements categorised his race".

Dr Ludwig Eckstein from the headquarters of the Reichsfuehrer SS encapsulated this view towards the end of the Second European War with, "While supporting our own race, and if necessary fighting against other races to protect its right to exist, we should not overlook the FACT that almost all other races display something in themselves that is sound and biologically resolved and therefore BEAUTIFUL, NATURAL and VALUABLE ... each race carries first of all the measure of worth in ITSELF. When once we understand this then we do not foster feelings of inferiority in others, a consequence the hitherto existing race theories have too often achieved".

This was a far more mature approach to the race issue and a lesson many still need to learn today. Hatred is born of fear and has no place in our racial consciousness, where we stand firm and confident regarding the great achievements of our own people ... no less that the achievements of others. We need to fear nothing if we adopt this maturity of thinking, for then other races and peoples would regard us with respect while, at the same time, dealing a powerful blow at the misbegotten slur our traditional enemy has thrown at us.

Race is an ideal ... A COMMUNITY OF BLOOD IN A COMMON HOMELAND. It provides us with our character as a collective expression. It is the same with all races and we must foster this ideal for all Mankind. Only then can some order be put back in the world and our destiny fulfilled.

The Ancient Greeks. An "Aryan" people whose achievements easily outshone those of the Nordics.

We Say: Create A

On March 1st, 1962, Sir Oswald Mosley, then the leader of Union Movement, met his European counterparts in Venice where a declaration was signed proclaiming common interests and embodied in a "NATIONAL PARTY OF EUROPE". The signatories to this declaration included Adolf von Thadden of the Deutsche Reichspartei, Giovanni Lanfre of the Italian Social Movement (MSI) and the Belgian, Jean Thiriart, of Jeune-Europe.

Shortly after this gathering, Mosley publicly demonstrated this policy at a meeting in Trafalgar Square along with a massive banner stating, "We Are National Europeans". The conference of Venice was a serious effort to bring together the best of the Europeans in a common struggle, working together for a Europe that had been divided and torn apart by an unnecessary war. I hesitate to use the recently controversial analogy of the "single strand of hemp ... brought and twined together" but the pre-war Fascist symbolism of the bundle of rods of the Fasces remained the eternal principle of unity. This was the meaning in the name "Union Movement", going beyond British Union to a post-war European Union.

Mosley campaigns in East London for "EUROPE A NATION"

This radical European faith had attracted so much talent, inspired by Mosley himself, that all things seemed possible at that time. Sadly, the National Party of Europe never really took off the ground while so many of the protagonists at Venice reverted to their narrower nationalistic posturing ... Mosley and Thiriart being notable exeptions. The will to unite was lacking at the moment when a great idea presented the opportunity. The Venice Declaration was just another piece of paper in history, penned with good intentions.

We who declare ourselves as Europeans look back to what could have been a momentous beginning for a truly effective European struggle for race and nation. Looking back at Venice, we recognise the indicators for the future and say that the intentions at that time are no less relevant now but are, indeed, more urgently needed as the entire European race is threatened with extinction by invasions from the "Third World" and elsewhere.

In The Rune magazine, Nick Griffin stated, "We are racialists before we are nationalists". This is a radical intellectual leap for a British Nationalist who recognises the wider dimension of the biological threat to what scientists and other academics have designated as the "European race" or, more euphemistically, as the White race. Europeans may be divided by language and local custom but the biological factor places us as members of one family ... and that family is our race.

To talk of White unity can only imply the union of all Europeans otherwise it is no unity at all but simply the ghetto mentality of abstract "sovereign" states established long ago as monarchical feifdoms. The slavery of the people is maintained by more powerful, insidious international institutions making a complete mockery of "national sovereignty".

National Party For Europe!

It is the issues of racial unity and national sovereignty which are at the core of the European Question and which must be debated within the nationalist movements throughout Europe or all the talk of racial unity is meaningless. It is because we love our race that we are Europeans and every racial nationalist in every nation-state of the European continent must recognise that kinship and embrace the vital principle of unity wherein lies the strength and power to rise up and overcome the terrible forces lined up to oppose and destroy us.

British Nationalists can find their home within the European racial family just as Scotsmen, Welshmen and Ulstermen embrace their Britishness without any loss of identity or local custom. In fact, being a citizen of the UNITED Kingdom induces a Scotsman to be more Scottish and a Welshman more Welsh, emphasising the cultural diversities we all love and cherish. It would be the same in our UNITED National Europe.

But it is far more than a question of parochial or provincial custom ... far more than the sentimental waving of flags. No, this is a question of survival as a race whereas national frontiers as exist today are relatively unimportant, merely reminding Europeans of the demarcations of past quarrels and wars ... wars in which racial brothers have butchered and slaughtered each other to the satisfaction of those who hate Europe and everything it stands for.

We are not talking about Brussels or Strasbourg as the model for our Europe. We are not talking about bureaucratic rackets which would seek to regulate everything in order to reduce the European people to a grey, lowest common denominator regardless of the uniqueness of the regions.

Our national character is too strong for it to be diluted in a morass of greyness. Indeed, we shall maintain our Britishness whilst standing shoulder to shoulder with our German and French, Flemish and Walloon brothers in racial solidarity. Rather than lose that character we shall have every reason to reinforce it and make a great contribution as we have done at other times in our history.

Let us now move towards the creation of a new NATIONAL PARTY OF EUROPE. Let us move forward, all of us, from our localities, towns and villages, from the great cities and our provinces towards that greatest of all unions ... THE UNION OF RACE WITHIN A EUROPEAN FATHERLAND, STRONG, SAFE AND SECURE.

Political Correctness Joins The British Army

The equality commissars now have a foothold in one of our oldest and cherished institutes, the Army. From October, all servicemen will be under scrutiny for any remark or activity deemed a heresy under the Race Relations Act

Barrack room banter is now monitored by an agency called the Equal Opportunities Inquiry Team, completely independent from the chain of command ... but is answerable to whom? This inquiry team serves no military function but is entirely political in nature. One can only compare such a body with the infamous NKVD once operating within the Red Army.

In those days any deviation from Communist Party doctrine was met with summary execution. Obviously, any present-day transgressions in the British Army will be met with less extreme measures.

The chief puppet of the political correctness brigade is General Sir Roger Wheeler, Chief of the General Staff. In launching this initiative, he emphasised zero tolerance for any breach of the Race Relations Act, using the euphemism of "equal opportunities". The main purpose behind this directive is to increase the non-white element within the Army. General Wheeler hopes that within five years "the Army would reflect the seven per cent of general population from ethnic minorities". At present, only one per cent of the ethnic minorities is represented. An article in an Army publication reports the Army's determination "to continue the campaign against racism".. Does that ring a familiar bell?

We wonder who is writing this tosh.

Bullying and sexual harassment is intolerable. All civilised people will agree on that. But this directive on "racism" is contentious. The very term "racism" covers such a vast area of thought and interpretation that the merest hint or suggestion that one is racially conscious brings down the full weight of our draconian laws. It is entirely political and to bring politics into the barrack room in this fashion goes against all military traditions.

The Ministry of Defence is now issuing leaflets to every soldier in order to make clear the Army's new policy. Political indoctrination is now the order of the day and every soldier must be on his guard for any malicious sneak who conspires to destroy another's career. This policy will obviously cover such things as possession of patriotic publications and the punishments will be no less severe than that meted out to civilians. In such a closed environment as an Army unit, the dangers are increased. As the soldier who supplied us with this information said, "What has happened to the Army I joined? No wonder I am so disillusioned!"

Warcrimes "Witchhunt" Continues

South Londoner, Andrei Sawoniuk, aged 77, is to become the second person to face prosecution under the 1991 War Crimes Act.

Mr Sawoniuk, a retired British Rail worker from Bermondsey, South London has been charged with five counts of murder.

The charges relate to alleged incidents in the Belarus region of the former Soviet Union which was occupied by German troops in 1941.

Mr Sawoniuk has denied the charges against him. The allegations have been investigated by the Specialist Operations Unit of Scotland Yard and the prosecution was approved by the Attorney-General, John Morris, after representations to the Crown Prosecution Service by self-appointed "representatives of the Jewish Community".

The War Crimes Act has been dubbed "The Law of Jewish Revenge" by some critics who believe the dragging of elderly men into court to face allegations of crimes committed in a foreign country over 50 years ago does not serve British justice and is "not in the public interest". The only previous trial held under this act was abandoned.

NF "Reclaim The Lane".

The National Front gave many East Enders a pleasent surprise recently when twenty activists held a mass-papersale in Bethnal Green's, Brick Lane market.
"The Lane" was for many years a traditional sales pitch for all nationalist groups, including Sir Oswald Mosley who held regular open air meetings there, both before and after the war.

Unfortunately, through a lack of police commitment, and some say with police connivance, members of the extreme-left were allowed to violently disrupt the papersales and fearing for the safety of the public, the sales pitches were abandoned.

But in a well planned move, the NF decended unannounced and reclaimed the traditional pitches.
They were greeted warmly by most shoppers and large quantities of The Flame were sold without any opposition.

High street charity shops 'fund neo-fascist village'

by CIARAN BYRNE and MATTHEW KALMAN

A GROUP of Right-wing activists is being investigated by the Charity Commission after opening a chain of charity shops which raise money for the building of a village for nationalists.

Former members of the National Front and an Italian fascist, convicted of a criminal offence in his own country, are involved in two charities, which claim links to the Roman Catholic Church.

An investigation by The Sunday Telegraph has uncovered evidence that the charities are linked to a neo-fascist organisation advocating the destruction of Israel and the repatriation of ethnic minorities.

Last night, in response to inquiries by this newspaper, the commission moved to freeze the assets of the Trust of St Michael the Archangel, a "Catholic" charity which has raised more than £50,000 through four shops.

Stewart Crook-Bank, director of operations for the commission, said: "The public will be extremely concerned about this."

Look Back On History

EXAMINES ZIONIST

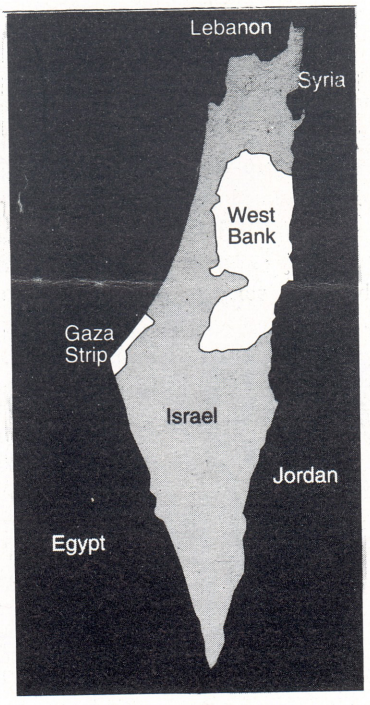
The State of Israel was founded in blood ... the blood of thousands of innocent Palestinian men, women and children. We believe the creation of this state in 1948 was a mistake and has proven to be disastrous for both Jew and Arab alike. A state that is founded purely on armed force can only be maintained by armed force and can never claim a legitimacy for its existence.

With their international influence, the Zionists had begun their incursions into Palestine with the Balfour Declaration in 1917, "viewing with favour" a national home for the Jews. The second paragraph of this declaration stated, however, that "it being clearly understood that nothing should be done which might prejudice the civil and religious rights of existing non-Jewish communities in Palestine".
The Zionists were determined to flood Palestine with Jews and displace the Palestinians. The Arabs of Palestine rebelled in 1936 with the British in a state of confusion.

The original concept behind the Balfour Declaration is that the Jews were to share Palestine but the insular and isolationist nature of the Zionist Jew regarded any such proposition as a threat to their "race" and religion. The result was that a million Arabs were driven from their homes. The methods used were sickening and cowardly.

When the British abandoned their mandate in Palestine in 1948 only the Arab Legion was left to defend the Arab population from Jewish attacks. The Legion, commanded by a British officer, Glubb Pasha, was the only force feared by the Zionist murder gangs and the Hagana in particular. The Arab Legion was composed of half-trained Arab irregulars whose courage and determination became legendary. Both sides were determined to fight it out to the end.

The first horrifying incident occurred in the Arab village of Deir Yaseen, just west of Jerusalem. The Hagana, the embryonic Israeli Army, stood aside for the two Zionist murder gangs, the Irgun and the Stern gang, to enter and perpetrate one of many atrocities. Most of the men of the village were away working, leaving only the elderly, women and children. Two hundred and fifty corpses were dispatched down a water well. After 1948, the fighting in Palestine became more intense with Zionist forces breaking across the U.N. partition lines with the intention of occupying Arab land. The Arab Legion became a professional, regular force and was the only defence for the Arab population in Palestine.
Zionist tactics were aimed at innocent civilians. On May 21st 1950, Ahmed Abdul Hai briefly left his wife and family resting whilst on their way to Jordan from the Israeli side of the demarcation line. A Zionist patrol approached them and massacred them at close range. Ahmed's son and mother were killed outright with his sister badly wounded.



Occupied Palestine. Two Million Palestinians live as second-class citizens in their OWN land.

WAR CRIMES

On May 31st, fifty Arab prisoners were transported from a prison in a truck for sixteen hours ... blind-folded and without food and water. On arrival at the Jordanian border they were thrown out, subjected to bursts of machine gun fire and ordered to cross the desert. During the two day ordeal twenty of them died. The remaining thirty were rescued by an Arab Legion patrol. These survivors told of violent torture in Israeli prisons, with one having his fingernails torn out. These Arabs were not prisoners of war. Most were refugees with at least one, simply working in a field collecting the harvest. Zionists arrested them simply for being Arabs.

The Zionists passed a Nationality Act proclaiming that any Jew in the world can become an Israeli citizen. An Arab had to prove his claim even though his ancestors had lived in that land for hundreds of years. The Palestinians were in a dangerous position.

Arab refugees were forced out of their homes with only the clothes they stood up in. Families were split up in the panic and the occasional threat of massacre. Israeli soldiers would enter an Arab village and shoot the first two Arabs they came across and then withdraw.
Occasionally a bomb was thrown through the window where a family were eating together. These incidents occurred so often that the Arab Legion actually supplied arms to the villagers in order to repulse the Zionist raids. This only served to increase the harshness of these atrocious acts.

Many people who proclaim themselves "friends of Israel" prefer to forget these incidents and many more. They would like the world to believe the Palestinian Arabs left their homes voluntarily. They would also like the world to believe the Arabs were not making full use of the land. The town of Qalqiliya was one of those drawn into the Israeli side of the demarcation. Massive orange groves had been planted by the forebears of the indigenous Palestinians and were their only means of living. On one side of the demarcation line were the orange groves in Zionist hands while the destitute Arabs sat in their homes on the other side watching the Jews picking their oranges.
The threat of Jewish colonisation continues today but the Palestinians (unlike the "friends of Israel") have long memories.
The Zionist terror continues but one day the Palestinians WILL return home.

"The Law of Return is one of the fundamental laws of the state of Israel. This law states that it is not this state which grants Jews from abroad the right to settle in it, but that this right is inherent by virtue of being a Jew.".

חתימת פקיד הרישום

The registration for a Jewish citizen in the state of Israel is ...

Citizenship: ISRAELI
Nationality: JEWISH Religion: JEWISH

Thus are the Jewish state and religion bound together as one. Although this AUTOMATICALLY applies to Jewish immigrants to Israel an Arab BORN in Israel would be registered as follows ...

Citizenship: .....
Nationality: ARAB Religion: MUSLIM

Even an Arab child born in Israel is not classed as an Israeli citizen. Whilst a Jewish immigrant, say from Poland, gets automatic citizenship.
Thus are Arabs discriminated against in their OWN land.

A TALE FOR CHRISTMAS

Obituary

GERRY GABLE

The world is full of great tragedies that it might seem almost self-indulgent to draw attention to a small one. In the beginning of November, League Sentinel was informed of the sudden demise of one Gerald Gable, a man known to many for his periodic bouts of raving paranoia. To some he was a pain in the rectum but we shall remember him for his wonderful absurdities regularly published in his trade journal, Searchlight. Gerry rightly deserves the accolade of perhaps one of the greatest fiction writers of his generation, from which he made an immodest fortune.

Gerry Gable was born in 1937, of a Christian father and a Jewish mother. The maternal line ensured his kosher credentials, even though his education began in a gentile Hackney primary school. The stories that he was heavily addicted to narcotic substances at this school are probably apocryphal ... the expression, "getting stoned", is more likely to refer to the daily battering he received from other children taking umbrage at the allegation his forebears crucified Christ. This episode left a permanent mark on him (several, in fact) and he was to seek out his revenge on the world by joining the Communist Party. He once stood as an unsuccessful CP candidate in an election. In the early 1960's he became embroiled with the Zionist terror gang, the 62 group ... a motley collection of pederasts, cabalistic fanatics and a world-famous hairdresser. This group is best remembered for their cowardly attacks on unarmed, isolated patriots ... their favourite weapons being the razor and cosh.

Gable first came to prominence when caught red-handed breaking into the home of historian, David Irving. Among his other exploits was the fabrication of tales of synagogue arson and the desecration of Jewish cemeteries ... all proven to be a hoax. This did not prevent him from successfully conning television channels as a "researcher", with the result that the BBC had to pay out substantial libel damages to two of Gable's smear victims. Yet more of his fantasising involved the satirical magazine, Private Eye, doing the same.

In recent years, he was in the vicinity when Sir Oswald Mosley's erstwhile secretary, Jeffrey Hamm (a man well into his seventies), was savagely beaten up in Kensington. Jeffrey Hamm died only weeks later. Gable tried desperately to put himself across to the media (and the Jewish Chronicle) as a selfless crusader campaigning for a noble cause ... but the mask had fallen off long before. He leaves behind a widow and six children.

Postscript: as we go to press, a rather ugly, moustachioed countenance has been spotted peering through a misted-up window in a pebble-dashed semi in Clayhall, Ilford.

Ah, well ... perhaps next year!
